Educators see the world

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

Teachers in the western Wayne County area became students for a day at a recent USA Today/Delta Air Lines international geographic education orientation program in Wayne.

USA Today and Delta officials presented curriculum which meets the new National Assessment Standards for geography. The program, Geographic Connections, sponsored by Delta World Adventure, has a strong focus on parent and family involvement in education.

The program includes teacher and student curriculum for grades four through eight. It will be distributed to 3,000 middle schools during the 1992-93 school year and another 4,000 middle schools, including 500 abroad, in the 1993-94 school year.

In addition to the curriculum, each participating school will receive a video produced by CNN Newsroom on the implementation of the program. "USA Today is committed to addressing the changing needs of the American education system," said Tom Curley, president and publisher of USA Today. "This program is the first step by challenging students in the field of geography around the world."

Delta officials hope to generate enthusiasm from educators and students by "bringing the excitement of geography discovery to the children of America," according to Whit Hawkins, Delta president and chief operating officer.

"As a global air carrier, Delta understands the importance of the geographic, cultural, environmental and political differences in our world," Hawkins said.

Teachers gathered at the Wayne County Regional Service Agency for the presentation. Individuals who participated in the local area included: Patricia Montgomery-Wayne/Westland (Adams Junior High School); Kevin Schaum-Wayne/Westland (Franklin Junior High School); John Partain-Wayne/Westland (Marshall Junior High School); Sandy Black-Wayne/Westland (Stevenson Junior High School); Kirk Spangler and Jerry Cook-Belleville (South Middle School); Bob LaChance-Romulus (Romulus Junior High School) and Martha Petroski-Inkster (Blanchette Middle School).

Ruth Nolder, educational services representative for USA Today in Detroit, ignited the interest of the teachers by providing a hands-on demonstration of how to implement Geographic Connections in the classroom.

"We try to provide several tools to help you with the lesson plan," Nolder said. "One lesson which definitely encourages the students to be creative is having them describe what their own country would look like."

"They could tell you what is around the country and it doesn't have to be water. They could also tell you the name of their country."

Students could be placed in teams for this project, according to Nolder. The shape and design of flag would also be created by the students.

City legal chief readies anti-explosion lawsuit

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus legal officials began collecting depositions Wednesday in preparation for a battle with Wayne County regarding the recent Metro Airport demolition training sessions conducted within city limits.

The city obtained depositions from civilian county employees and a sergeant in the County Sheriff's Department. County officials took depositions from Mayor Beverly McAnally, Police Chief Fred Dansby and a police officer earlier.

The unannounced explosions caused some residents, including McAnally, to fear that a plane had crashed at Metro Airport.

City Attorney Barry Seifman filed "cease and desist" suits against Wayne County Executive Director Ed McNamara and County Sheriff Robert Ficano on Jan. 6 at the County Circuit Court in Detroit.

The hearing is slated for 9 a.m. Jan. 22 before Judge Phillip J. Jourdan.

McAnally and other city officials became incensed when Metro Airport security chiefs conducted an explosives detection and detonation program at several sites in the city.

Fred Dansby

The training programs were conducted inside otherwise vacant homes that Wayne County had purchased and slated for demolition in preparation for Metro Airport expansion.

McAnally complained on Jan. 4 that the city was not properly informed by Wayne County.

The next day, Metro Airport Deputy Operations Director Dan Kerber stated that the county informed both Dansby and Romulus Fire Chief William Greenslait of the training program plans well in advance.

Greenslait said he received a call from "someone at the airport about a month before," but said the gist of his knowledge was the vacant homes "would be torn down, not blown up."

Dansby admitted being informed by the county and actually was at the site of one of the blasts on Jan. 4.

When asked when the mayor first learned of the planned blasts, Dansby said "I guess Monday (Jan. 4)."

The mayor revealed on Jan. 6 that she personally went to the scene of one of the demolition sites and stood near the vacant home and shouted at the county agents to halt their exercise.

They conceded to the mayor's demands and left the scene with their explosives.

Kerber initially expressed surprise that the blasts became such an issue in Romulus. He explained that similar exercises were held a year ago at Willow Run Airport and there was no concern expressed from municipal officials.

McAnally retorted "I don't care what they do in Willow Run. I do care what happens in Romulus."

Teacher buyouts due in March

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus Community School District has negotiated a severance plan that would allow many veteran teachers to leave the district with a substantial severance payment.

Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne, assistant school superintendent for administrative services, said 98 percent of district teachers would be eligible for such a buyout.

LeCesne said the agreement negotiated with the Wayne County Education Association (WCMEA) is available to teachers who currently are employed by the district and are at the top of their salary schedule.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell said, "I am quite pleased with this window of opportunity to not only reduce costs, but more importantly to possibly be able to bring in some new teachers with fresh ideas and approaches to complement our more experienced staff."

The Romulus School District has been limited in the hiring of new teachers due to a large recall list of previously laid off teachers, he said.

According to the severance incentive plan, LeCesne reported, if less than seven teachers leave between March 1 and March 24 of this year, they would receive a one-time payment of $6,000.

If that buyout number ranges from seven to 14, that payment increases to $10,000. If 15 to 19 teachers agree to leave the district, the payment grows to $12,000 each and if 20 or more retire, the payment reaches $15,000.

The plan was devised to lower district teacher personnel costs and open the door to new teachers at a lower salary, LeCesne said.

American Legion post planned in Romulus

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

An informational meeting to create an American Legion Post in Romulus will be conducted at 7 p.m. Jan. 26 at VFW Post 9568.

Rep. John Jankowski will be one of the two Legion representatives to attend the meeting at the post located at 39270 Huron River Drive.

To kick off the new group, a total of 15 charter members will be needed, City Councilman Russell Lambert explained Monday. All charter members need to be new Legion members, they cannot be transfers from another post, Lambert said.

All a veteran needs to qualify for Legion membership, Lambert said, is to have been a member of the U.S. armed forces during a period of foreign military conflict, even if they were stationed stateside.

Since 10 or more local veterans have expressed interest in joining such a Legion post at an earlier meeting, Lambert said, less than five more are needed to qualify as a charter post.

Once the new post is formed, existing Legionnaires can transfer to the Romulus group, Lambert explained.

Persons seeking more information are urged to call Orin Prosser or Earl Corpe at 941-9866.

Gas station

clerk robbed

A lone gunman robbed a 28-year-old woman gas station attendant early Saturday night.

The victim, who resides in Romulus, told police the bandit came into the station office at Wayne and Wick Roads about 7:45 p.m. and produced a small silver handgun.

He demanded, "Give me what's in the drawer and nobody will get hurt," she told police.

When the victim asked the man if he wanted the change in the register, he retorted, "No, just give me the bills," and fled after obtaining the money.

He was described as a black male in his early 20s, about 5-feet, 5-inches tall, and weighing about 145 pounds. He reportedly was wearing a black hooded pullover sweatshirt or jacket.

Circus returning to Romulus July 7

The Franzen Brothers Circus will be returning to Romulus for two performances on July 7, Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce President Mark Lewkowicz announced today.

The circus will offer performances at 4:30 and 7 p.m. at Senior Citizen Park.

Franzen Brothers Circus first appeared in Romulus last August with special guest star Denny McLain (former Detroit Tiger pitching star) riding in on the back of an elephant to begin the performance.

Pizza company

worker is robbed

A 39-year-old pizza company worker was robbed by a team of bandits just before midnight Friday.

The victim, who resides in Dearborn, told police two men walked into the facility in the 31000 block of Ecorse Road, made a small purchase and loitered around for several minutes.

Then the bandit, carrying a small blue-steel revolver, walked up to the pizza worker and asked, "Where's the money?"

The victim said he replied, "There it is take it." The gunman forced him to kneel down behind the counter and at the same time took the worker's money out of his pockets.

The second man took the cash from the register and both fled on foot across Ecorse Road.

Both men were described as being black men in their late teens and about 5-feet, 10-inches tall.

The gunman reportedly was wearing a red, white and blue jumpsuit, while the second man was dressed in a red wool cap and blue sweatpants.

Students enjoy 'shadowing'

Third grade Barth Elementary School students earned a chance Monday to "shadow" various Courtyard by Marriott Hotel employees to learn early what job responsibilities include.

Students from Bonnie Mientkiewicz's third grade class spent Monday morning and lunchtime at the hotel to develop a number of hands-on job experiences.

"The students who worked in the kitchen had the distinct pleasure of making cookies that were later served at their class luncheon that day," Mientkiewicz revealed.

Other students serves as housekeepers, front desk personnel, restaurant cooks, restaurant servers, sales managers, general managers, sales coordinators and maintenance engineers.

School leaders realized that while it was too early for third graders to make career decisions, it was not too early to expose them to work environment opportunities.

Hotel general manager Harold Howse was extremely pleased with the friendly chemistry exhibited by both the students and his staff members.

"I was surprised when some of my employees stated they wished such an opportunity was available to them when they were in grade school," Howse said.

Prior to their "work" visit at the hotel, the students heard hotel administrators discuss the venture at Barth School.

The so-called shadowing program was coordinated by Ed Clark of the school district Partnership with Education program.

City names representative

City Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron has been selected as the Romulus representative to the Michigan Municipal League.

As the representative, Bergeron will attend as many Lansing hearings and legislative meetings as requested by League President Ben Marks.

Marks attended the Jan. 4 City Council meeting and praised Mayor Beverly McAnally's record of attending such sessions in Lansing and elsewhere.

But Marks urged that one or more council members also begin attending such sessions so that state legislators become aware of who various Romulus officials are.

"It's no secret that involved local officials can make the difference between success and failure in Lansing. No one speaks on municipal issues like a local official," George Goodman, the league executive director wrote.

Marks following up his Romulus meeting with a printed request that was acted upon at the Monday night meeting.

Stressing the need for local involvement, Goodman continued, "although half of our officials try to influence the legislative outcome in Lansing, half do not."

Bergeron volunteered for the assignment and urged that McAnally be named as his alternate in case he could not attend any important sessions. The mayor accepted the arrangement.

The league plans to increase involvement in Lansing this year, Goodman said, but to do it needs at least one local representative from each municipality to get involved.

"Members of this select group will work with the league's professional staff to boost the effectiveness of our municipal advocacy program," Goodman continued.

Local governmental representatives will receive the Legislative Bulletin, Environmental Impact and other special legislative information.

They are to promptly review the publications, identify issues affecting their community and confirm that the information is disseminated to appropriate officials for action.

The representatives will also join in a special legislative briefing twice a year. The first will be the day before the league legislative conference and the other will be in August.

Representatives also will be asked to involve other municipal officials in various legislative matters.

Golf course study approved

A study of the feasibility of an 18-hole, city-owned golf course was approved Monday night by members of the Romulus City Council.

The council approved a request for Mayor Beverly McAnally and City Clerk Linda Choate to enter into an agreement with Bills/Childs Associates for the review of a potential 335 acre golf course-residential land proposal in an area surrounded by Merriman, Van Born, and Beverly roads and bordered by vacant land on the remaining side.

The consultants are expected to determine whether the golf course is located and routed in the best interest of the city of Romulus, to review a market analysis dated September 1992 for development of a golf course on the site by Wayne County Parks and to prepare a cost estimate for the development of the golf course.

The firm also was asked to prepare a five-year income and operations projection using these estimated costs, which will provide the city with a base for decision making on financing such a project.

Fees for this study are based on an $80 an hour rate and should not exceed $1,600, according to the contract.

The city is also considering an alternate golf course site in the area of Wick and Cogswell roads.

In an unrelated action, the city council members approved a typewriter maintenance agreement with Michigan Business Machines of Southfield at an hourly rate of $34.50.

The Southfield firm was the lowest of eight bidders.

Decision nears

on water rates

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A final decision on increasing city water and sewer rates and updating ordinances pertaining to both will be considered Jan. 25 by the Romulus City Council members.

The City Council scheduled two public study sessions in recent weeks following the receipt of letters from the state Department of Natural Resources warning that if such updates were not made, Romulus could be precluded from future grant distributions.

Mayor Beverly McAnally strongly told the council Monday night that "development of this community could be severely hampered if we are red-lined out of any future grant proposals particularly with President-elect Bill Clinton about to take office."

McAnally said the city is now preparing paperwork in anticipation of any infrastructure programs pushed by the Clinton administration.

City Finance Director L. Donovan McGuire told the council members that he once again received a call from Robert M. Schneider of the DNR asking if the council had acted on the fee hikes and ordinance update.

McGuire tried to obtain action on the proposals Monday night, but Councilman Jimmie Raspberry said, "I need to digest what you have already digested, before I can vote on the matter."

Two council members, Randy Gear and William Wadsworth, were absent from the meeting Monday.

The DNR is pressing Romulus to hike water and sewer rates so that the fees pay the annual costs. In recent years, Romulus has seen a deficit caused by the lower rates and made up the difference from the city budget general fund.

"Failure to comply with the approved user charge system could cause termination or annulment of the subject grant," the DNR wrote last year.

The issue of illegal taps into the sewer lines in Romulus was not discussed at the second study session Monday.

The earlier session on Jan. 4 witnessed a request by Raspberry for the investigation of such illegal taps, which he claimed were costing the city thousands of dollars every year.

McAnally said that she was not sure exactly how to uncover such illegal taps, and was not willing to spend $60,000 or more for such an effort.

Trucking company

owes city $55,000

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

While the city of Romulus has yet to be notified officially of the Chapter 11 bankruptcy procedure filed by Jones Transfer Co., City Treasurer James Napiorkowski reveals the firm still owes Romulus more than $35,000.

The Monroe-based firm that has property and more than a dozen employees in Romulus, closed its doors just prior to the Christmas holidays and laid off 900 employees in Michigan and four other states.

Reportedly the Chapter 11 papers were filed Dec. 30, 1992 on behalf of both Trans Jones Inc. (the holding company) and Jones Transfer (the trucking operations).

Initial reports fail to list any debt to Romulus. Consequently, Napiorkowski said he will have to contact the federal bankruptcy court and Trans Jones officials to find out "why Romulus is not listed as a creditor."

The Jones Transfer filing shows that it has assets of about $13 million and liabilities of $15 million. Trans Jones lists assets of $13.4 million and $12.7 in liabilities.

Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code allows firms to resume operations under a payment plan worked out with creditors.

But several company officials stated they know of no such plan arrangement finalized as yet and the future of the company was described as "hazy."

Some of the main creditors include Ford Motor Credit Corp. owed about $1.9 million; former owners Ralph Manausso and Robert J. Duffey owed $1.5 million each; as well as similar amounts owed to former executives Nicholas J. Carlton, Robert J. Duffey II and Charles G. Harrington Jr.

Carlton, who left the company five years ago, was quoted as saying he wasn't shocked by the difficulties of the firm and "we're all sitting in the dark and waiting to see what happens."

He felt the biggest enemies to the future of the company are the economy and the general climate of the the trucking industry.

Another listed creditor is Trailer Leasing Co. of Wayne with a debt of $17,992.

Romulus marketing effort is growing

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The planned marketing of the City of Romulus residential and industrial areas took a major step forward this week, as the local group charged with the task sought to determine what it was the city wanted to market.

The effort started last year by Community Development Director Dennis Oakes has grown to include city, school board, Romulus Chamber of Commerce and industrial representatives.

Since Oakes plans to move to Virginia in a few months to join his wife, Chamber President Mark Lewkowicz was named as interim leader of the group.

The city hoped for a time that it could attract former Rep. James Kosteva to assume the community development post currently filled by Oakes, but Kosteva took a Lansing job.

Mayor Beverly McAnally, who also attended the meeting, said the city is looking at other possible replacements for Oakes. But feels Kosteva could remain a valuable ally to the city in his new Lansing post.

The first mega-session of the year was Jan. 6 with 22 persons in attendance, Oakes said. The group selected a 10-member steering committee, he explained, and is working to have representatives of Detroit Edison and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. join the group.

The group decided first to delay hiring a consulting firm until the priorities of the group could be outlined.

Trees provide living tributes

A living tribute to those who have died is available through the Memory Tree program recently adopted by the David C. Brown Funeral Home.

The funeral home, through The Memory Tree, will send a small tree to families who have lost a loved one. The tree will be shipped during the proper planting season so that a family member or friend can plan it on his own property or on nearby public land.

"By planting the tree where they can see it grow, it is hoped that the tree will become a source of joy and beauty and will always be a symbol of hope," said David Brown, director of the firm.

If the family cannot plant a memory tree on their own land, the funeral home will arrange for the tree to be planted on public land in memory of the family member. When this is the case, The Memory Tree, will have a tree planted in an area of the country that has a need for reforestation.

Each family will receive a certificate of planting to keep as part of its family history.

"Whether the family chooses to plant the tree themselves or have it planted elsewhere, The Memory Tree will become a living tribute," Brown said. "We are always looking for ways to improve the service that we give to our families. With The Memory Tree we are able to do this as well as give something that the whole community can enjoy."

Inflamed Arches

If you are feeling pain or a burning sensation on the underside of your foot, you may be suffering from an inflammation of the longitudinal arch. This condition should be treated as soon as possible to avoid the bony protrusion known as heel spur.

The inflammation is caused by stress, either through an injury to the feet or a structural imbalance that can be corrected. Stress to the foot may cause the plantar fascia, (the fibrous tissue that stretches from the heel to the toes) to become inflamed. Left untreated, the strain on foot muscles may cause ligaments to tear and bleed.

This can lead to new tissue that calcifies into a bony protrusion in the heel area. Resting your foot can help bring some relief. So can foot strapping to help bring the structure back into balance.

Local woman seeks state beauty title

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

Westland could soon be the home of Mrs. Michigan or even Mrs. U.S.A.

Each year candidates from throughout the state are sought to apply for the Mrs. Michigan contest. Westland resident Tracy Cousino decided to apply for the competition after reading about it.

"The application had to be returned with an essay," Cousino said. "I had to write about myself and why I live in Westland."

Cousino submitted her application and was chosen to compete as the 1993 Mrs. Westland.

Cousino, the mother of Cole, 4, and Kyle, 2, entered the contest because she liked the idea that contributions are made to the winner's favorite charity.

"Actually it was my husband's idea," Cousino said. "That's what caught my attention, but I also liked that each contestant has to have a platform and they must choose a children's charity which would receive a contribution if they win."

The 31-year-old has worked as an assistant for Dr. James O'Dell, a chiropractor in Westland, for 13 years. It didn't take Cousino long to choose her favorite charity. She chose the Kentuckiana Children's Center located in Louisville, Kentucky.

"It a charity center and there is no charge for people who have multiply-handicapped children," Cousino said. "Along with the medical school they have specific things for all children to receive adjustments to increase their body's neurological functions."

Cousino believes that chiropractic adjustments are necessary for all people and that children should be taught the benefits of chiropractic medicine at a very young age.

"My children get adjustments and I've seen the difference in my children compared to other people's children," she said. "I also like the philosophy it teaches them."

Part of her platform also includes the importance of raising children while promoting high self esteem.

Cousino and 29 other Mrs. Michigan contestants will compete for the title April 3 and 4 at the Ramada Inn located in Southgate.

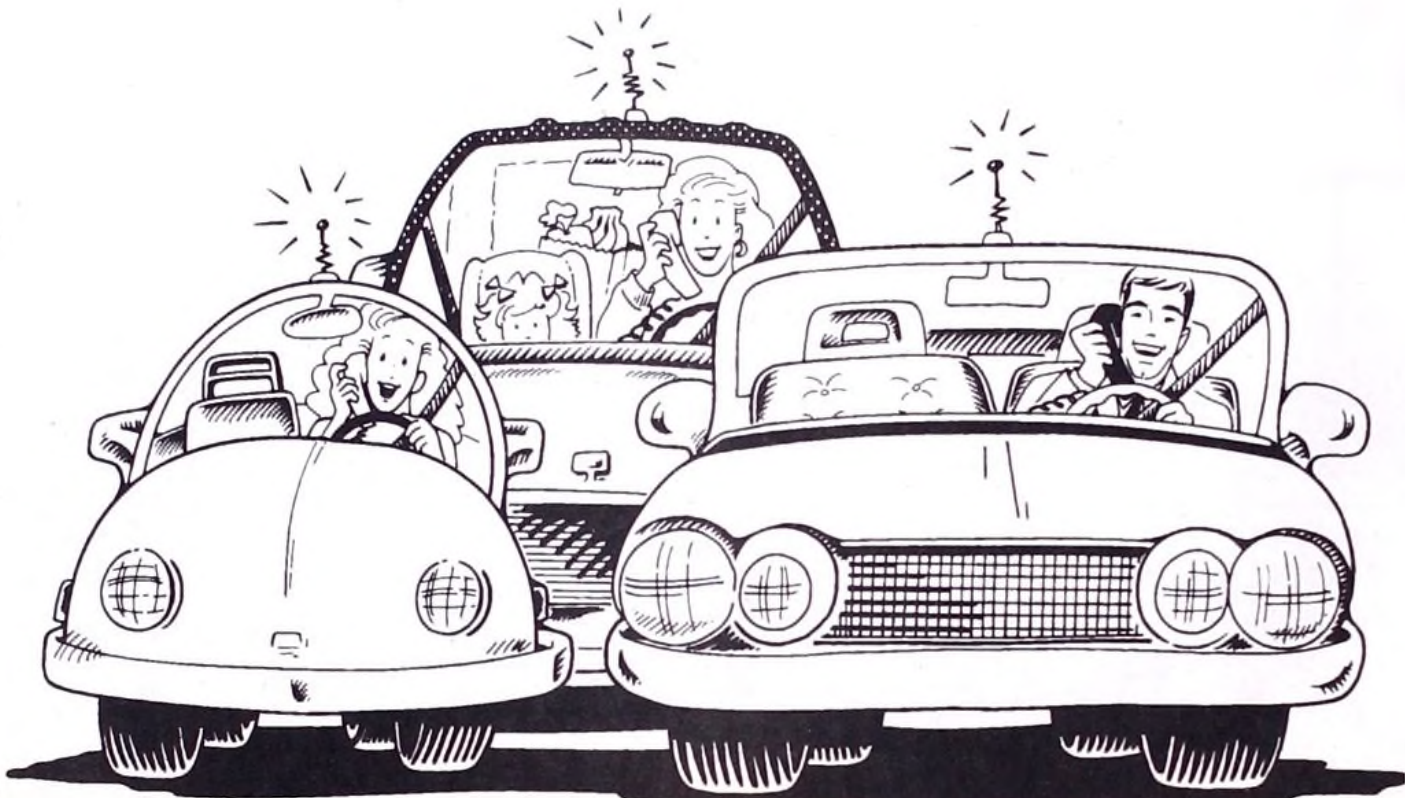

On April 3 contestants will be interviewed by judges. Those interviews will count as half of their scores.

The following night they will participate in the swimsuit competition, the evening gown competition and stage interviews, she said.

The winner will then qualify for the national Mrs. America Competition in July in Las Vegas.

The Mrs. Michigan contestants will have the opportunity to win up to $100,000 in prizes, Cousino said.

Mayor bulldozes longtime nemesis

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

He had to wait three years, but when Westland Mayor Robert Thomas received legal clearance to tear down the former Urban Cowboy Bar building, he did it himself.

When Thomas moved into the mayor's office, one of the first items on his agenda included tearing down the structure located at the corner of North Hix and Ford roads, which was formerly the Urban Cowboy Bar.

More than six weeks ago, the mayor received a court consent order to raze the building.

Last year, the mayor asked a crew from the local cable channel to go inside the building and videotape the interior to be used as evidence in court.

"Based on looking at the film, the judge gave us a clean consent order to tear the building down," Thomas said. "It's an eyesore and we have received hundreds of phone calls about the condition of the building."

"It's the first thing you see when you drive into Westland on Ford Road," Thomas said. "I'm so glad to see it go."

Thomas claimed that city officials had tried for three years to locate the owner who had moved out west. Once they located the owner, the property was then turned over to the owner's ex-husband which caused further delays, according to Thomas.

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas lost his patience and won a court battle prompting him to personally operate the bulldozer razing the former Urban Cowboy Saloon building. ANP Special Photo

Ford pushes for Family Leave Act

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

United States Congressman William D. Ford wasted very little time getting down to business this week and is pushing for approval of the Family and Medical Leave Act.

Ford (D-Ypsilanti Township), the chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, reintroduced the act which he said has the support of President-elect Bill Clinton.

If approved, citizens will be guaranteed up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave for family members who need time off from work to care for a newborn infant, or a seriously ill child, spouse or parent or to recover from an illness themselves.

"The Family Medical Leave Act will protect family values and America's children," Ford said. "It will make it possible for the working people of our state to provide family care when it is needed without fear of losing their jobs."

During the campaign last fall, Ford promised voters that the Family and Medical Leave Act would be at the top of his agenda when he returned to Washington D.C. in January. He also stated it would be the first successful bill to be approved by the new Congress and Clinton.

"This is an issue where the people of Michigan and the 13th District are way ahead of the president and Congress," Ford said. "They still wonder why the outgoing administration refused to sign the bill into law. We won't have to worry about another veto, though, because Bill Clinton knows our bill reflects a careful balance between the needs of Michigan's families and the interests of our public and private employers. It's fair to all," Ford added.

The 28-year-veteran of Congress is hopeful the act will receive support from the senate.

"I believe President Clinton will sign the Family and Medical leave Act into law before the paper stops fluttering on his desk," Ford said. "This will be the first of many people initiatives we'll put before our new president this year."

The Family and Medical Leave Act will include:

- Employees have the right up to 12 weeks a year of unpaid leave for the birth or adoption of a child, to care for a seriously ill child, to care for a seriously ill spouse or parent and for an employee's own serious illness.

- Employees must be reinstated to the same or equivalent position, with the continuation of pre-existing health insurance during the period of leave.

- Employers having fewer than 50 employees are exempt from coverage.

- To be eligible for leave, an employee must have worked for the employer for at least one year and at least 1,250 hours in the previous 12 months.

- A doctor's certification must be obtained to verify a serious illness.

- Certain key employees are exempt from coverage of the act. A key employee is defined as one who receives a salary in the top 10 percent of the workforce and whose leave would cause economic harm to the employer.

- Length of unpaid leave required in the bill could be offset by appropriate paid leave offered by an employer, including paid vacation leave.

Friend vows to continue search for man

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

Friends of Jeff Elkins, a 21-year-old former Westland resident, are still convinced they will see their friend again. Elkins has been missing since Dec. 23. He was last seen after he left his uncle's home in Dansville, Mich.

Even though there have been very few leads in the case, Elkins' friends are hoping there is a logical reason for his disappearance.

"We personally feel since his car hasn't been found or abandoned, that he has to be out there," said Steve Schoonover, a member of the group Friends for Jeff Elkins. "Whether he is mentally stable, or mentally unstable, some how he is out there. Maybe once he runs out of money he'll come home."

Less than 48 hours after Elkins' disappearance, more than 30 friends assembled in the basement of another friend's home and began the search. More than three weeks later, there were eight full-time members of the search team and approximately 25 members who help when they can.

"At any given time there could be 25 people working here in Paul's basement," Schoonover said. "A lot of our friends went back to school. Some of them who attend (EMU) Eastern Michigan University stop in and pick up some flyers and then take them back out to school and pass them out."

Despite the lack of progress, Schoonover said, the group members intend to continue with their efforts.

"We hit the point where we had done all we could do," Schoonover said. "We all have the attitude we aren't going to give it up until it is over with."

"Now, every day everyone comes up with at least one idea," Schoonover said.

Neither Elkins' family or his friends believe he could have become involved with any thing illegal.

"To my knowledge, he has never been in trouble with the police," Schoonover said. "We did plenty of pranks and stuff when we were kids, but we were never arrested."

Schoonover also stated that Elkins had a very good relationship with the uncle he had been living with since November of last year.

"He and his uncle were like brothers," Schoonover said. "Recently when we were over at his dad's house, I noticed that Jeff got his personality traits from his uncle."

Elkins was also close with his cousin, Carrie, who is 4 years old.

"His uncle's 4-year-old daughter calls Jeff her older brother," Schoonover said. "He loved to just sit on the floor and play with her for hours."

Although Elkins' friends are not sure how his father is handling the situation, they think he is beginning to accept that he may never see his son again.

"It seems like his dad has accepted it," Schoonover said. "It is as though time has caught up with him and he realizes it could be six more months or more before we find out anything."

But Schoonover is determined to find his friend.

"The idea that I might never see him again hasn't crossed my mind," Schoonover said. "Sooner or later whether it is tomorrow, a week, a month or a year, they will find something."

Group seeking host families

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

An international student exchange program is seeking local sponsor families, an area organizer said.

Colleen Christensen, of Canton Township, said the American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE) program, officially founded in 1976, is interested in finding host families for boys and girls 15-to-18 years old. The youngsters, visiting for some 10 months, are high school students primarily from Australia, Europe, Asia, Canada and South America.

"Host families," Christensen said, "are asked to provide living quarters, three meals-per-day and inclusion in family activities. The kids bring their own spending money and ASSE provides insurance. Sharing your life with someone from another country really is a wonderful experience."

As a child in suburban Detroit, Christensen learned first-hand about living and sharing space with foreign exchange students. Her parents, to this day, continue offering their home to the outside world.

"We've had students from Brazil, Sweden, Japan and Africa," she said. "I'm still close with those people."

Families interested in the program are heavily screened, said Christensen, to determine proper personality matches. Families may select the youngster of their choice from a file of applications, family photos and biographical essays. Most exchange students have a good understanding of the English language, she added, plus high school achievement levels.

"Stereotypes go out the window," said Christensen. "You learn as much about yourself as you do about the kids. I will say that it takes plenty of work and compromise, you have to be very dedicated. A person can't change their mind two months into the program."

For details concerning ASSE contact Christensen at 981-2446, or telephone toll-free at 1-800-736-1760.

Rockets win 2 easy ones

If coach Mike Schuette and the Westland John Glenn Rockets can win the rest of their games with the ease they won their first two of the new year, they probably won't be complaining.

The Westland team shook off their kinks in the second half and outscored visiting Ann Arbor Huron 16-4 en route to a 57-47 victory Tuesday over the River Rats in their first appearance after the holidays. Then, Friday night, they whipped Western Conference rival, Walled Lake Western, 86-55, for their third victory in four starts.

"We had a disastrous first-half against Huron," Schuette commented. "Nothing seemed to go right for us. But the kids started to play defense, and we held them to four points in the third period. That made the difference."

Led by sharpshooter Zarre Phillips, who had a game-high 23 points for the evening, Huron grabbed a narrow 12-11 lead over their hosts. They increased the margin to 30-21 at halftime.

Whatever Schuette told his Rockets at intermission apparently worked as the Westlanders came back and outscored their visitors 16-4 to take a 38-34 lead at the end of the third quarter. In that quarter, 6-6 Glenn senior Ken Taylor, and Tony Goins each contributed six points.

The Rockets stashed away the victory with a 20-13 scoring edge in the final stanza.

Goins accounted for 15 points, the team high, while Taylor added 14 points and 10 rebounds. John Miller contributed 12 for the winners, who made good on 11 of 16 charities. Huron had a dismal four of 14 performance at the foul line.

Taylor grabbed a career high 24 rebounds and Goins held high-scoring Brent MacKowiak to 11 points as Glenn destroyed Western in a crossover conference game.

MacKowiak was coming off of a 37-point game when he ran up against Goins, who "did a superb job guarding the high-scoring MacKowiak", said Schuette.

Glenn wasted little time as the Rockets built up a 20-10 first-period lead on the strength of Guy Rucker's eight points and Goins' six.

"We played smart," said Schuette. "We got the ball inside when we had to and we took advantage of their mistakes. If only the rest of the season would go like this - you wouldn't hear me complaining."

Don't count on it, coach. The Rockets were back on the non-conference hardwood Tuesday night, playing at South Lyon. They are at Plymouth Canton Friday night for their second crossover conference test.

Plymouth-Salem cagers had their problems in the first half against Livonia Churchill Friday night when they scored a total of 16 points for the half. Coach Bob Brodie (above, center) tried to shake the holidays out of his players but managed to do so only in the fourth period when the Rocks scored 21 points en route to a 48-38 victory over the Chargers. Churchill no match for Salem

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It wasn't the best of games - or the worst - but undefeated Plymouth-Salem did manage to chalk up a sixth consecutive basketball victory Friday night at the expense of Livonia Churchill.

"We displayed an ineptness on offense that I never thought we possessed," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "We missed easy shots and committed turnovers. We won but I really don't know how."

One good reason for the Rocks' win was the consistent effort from James Head, who pumped in a game-high 17 points, and scoring 11 of those in the final period. He also was near-perfect at the foul line, hitting on seven of eight charities.

Churchill took an early 8-6 first period lead in the low-scoring first half. The Chargers, although they didn't have anyone in double figures, did get nine points from Darrell Wiacek, who helped keep the outcome of the game in doubt.

Salem came back with a 10-6 edge in the second quarter and led by one basket (16-14) at half, but they found themselves trailing 28-27 for three before the 21-point fourth-quarter outburst that sealed their sixth victory.

Salem also had its problems against Waterford Kettering, its first opponent of the new year. The Rocks again replied on a second half surge to pull out a 58-34 non-conference victory.

The Rocks were up 19-15 for the first half before they came out and outscored their rivals 20-11 and 19-8 in the final two frames.

Mike Slone rattled the nets for eight of his game-high 21 points in the third period and twin brother, Brandon, contributed 11.

Salem in on the road this week. They placed their six-game winning streak on the line Tuesday night at Brighton and will return to conference play Friday at Livonia Franklin.

Inkster heavyweight undefeated

Fred Davis spent less than 30 minutes on the mats at Lincoln Park on Saturday and during that short span he established himself as the best heavyweight and the Most Valuable Wrestler at the downriver invitational.

Davis, an Inkster High School senior, pinned all four of his opponents for the gold medal. He also was the coaches' pick for the MVP or Hustler's Award.

"Davis is an exceptional talent," said Inkster coach Sam Ellis. "He has a 12-0 record this season, and nine of the victories on by falls."

Davis' efforts provided the Vikings with most of their 47 points in a tournament that was dominated by state-ranked Trenton. Trenton won the team title with 205 points. The champs had a 69-point cushion over the tournament runner up, Romulus, which took home the second-place award with 133. Riverview (133), Holly (124), Dearborn (124), Southgate Anderson (121), Wyandotte (120) followed the leaders. Wayne also competed and garnered 28 points.

The Inkster grappler needed only 52 seconds to convince John Goldwater of Lincoln Park the first-place medal belonged to Davis.

Inkster also received a medal-winning performance from Anthony Melchor who finished third at 103 after whipping New Boston Huron Roger Bowman, 7-0. Melchor lost his bid for the gold after losing to Andy Tordy pf Romulus, 10-5.

Although Romulus didn't produce any champs at the invitational, the Eagles did boast seven medalists.

Tordy reached the finals of the 103-pound bout where he lost to Southgate Anderson Scott Garden on an 8-1 decision. Felton Bush of Romulus also was denied a gold when he came up on the losing end of a 16-9 decision with Kevin Dodd of Riverview.

Kevin Ladach finished third for Romulus in the 130-pound class, and 135-pounder Leroy Prince defeated Dan Luna of Wyandotte, 7-5, for the bronze. The Eagles also received a third-place effort from Joe Elam, who defeated Jerry Brady of Riverview, 12-1, in the 145-pound class and Rob Graham pinned Rick Stanley of Wyandotte in 1:44 for the bronze in that weight class.

Romulus' Tim Kilgore was awarded a fifth-place medal in the 112-pound category, and teammate Scott Drysdale was sixth at 152.

Tigers prepare for 'traditional showdown'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A standing-room-only crowd is expected at Belleville High School Friday night when title-hopeful Belleville clashes with undefeated and defending Wolverine "A" Conference champ, Wayne Memorial High School.

Belleville, sporting a 4-3 overall record, but unbeaten in the conference, will have the home court advantage against a Wayne team that resembles the Tigers "in almost every category", says coach Michael Garland.

"Neither of these teams has much height this year," Garland added. "They rely on their speed and their aggressiveness. And they play defense."

Garland says that he expects a "typical Wayne-Belleville game", a "thriller to the end."

Wayne coach Chuck Henry agrees. "At the beginning of the year, I felt that Belleville and Fordson would be in the thick of this thing (title ace)," said Henry. "And that is the way it's panning out."

"Whoever wins Friday night will definitely be in the driver's seat," Henry added.

Belleville had a key game Tuesday night. They ran up against a capable Dearborn Fordson team. However, the Tractors were an upset victim in their Friday night outing against Monroe. The loss left only Belleville and Wayne with perfect conference records.

Belleville blew Lincoln Park away, 86-52, Friday night as the Tigers, sparked by 5-9 junior guard Doug Walters' seven points and six each from Ralph Truitt and Tony Maciejewski erupted to a 29-7 edge in the third period.

Up to that juncture, it was a close game. Belleville had leads of 17-14 and 36-29 at the end of the first two periods.

Walters finished with 12 points, while Truitt contributed 10, and Maciejewski scored six of his seven in the pivotal third stanza. The Tigers got an exceptional effort on the boards from Rashad Adkins, who hauled in nine.

On a roll Wayne streak at 6

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With insignificant stops at Wyandotte and Monroe last week, the Wayne Memorial cage title express continued to roll toward a second consecutive conference championship.

Coach Chuck Henry and his charges stretched their winning streak to six at the expense of their two Wolverine "A" Conference opponents. They crushed Wyandotte after a slow start, 60-43, and handed Monroe its worst setback in recent years 64-39.

"We got off to a shaky start against Wyandotte," said Henry, "but once we got into our game, things fell into place."

Wyandotte surprised Wayne with a zone defense and the Zebras had problems adjusting. The defending champs found themselves trailing 11-8 after they hit a horrendous two of 15 from the floor in the first period.

Wayne awakened from its slumber thanks to Gerald Adams and Rod Hardison. Adams scored eight of his 15 points in the third period to lift Wayne to a 42-29 lead after three periods. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after that.

Adams, a 5-7 guard, and Bill Romej accounted for more than half of the Zebras points. Romej connected on five treys and finished with a game high 18 points. Hardison finished with 16 and Adams had 15.

The Wayne defense managed to hold Monroe in single digits in both the first and final frames in its easy 64-39 victory over the Trojans in their 1993 debut. In front 18-6 after the first period, the Zebras held off Monroe which rallied to close the gap to 29-22 for the half. Wayne clinched it with a 16-12 and 19-15 scoring edge in the final two frames.

Adams led all scorers with 16 points while teammate Bruce Calhoun supplied the rebounds. He got 14 boards to go along with his 13 points.

Vikings rip Rouge

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster cagers worked overtime to end their losing streak and post their first Suburban Athletic Conference (SAC) victory of the 1992-93 campaign.

After five frustrating losses - two in the SAC, the Vikings came out an 92-84 winner in overtime against River Rouge Friday night.

"We needed this win," said Inkster coach Spencer Grant. "These kids have been working hard and had nothing to show for it. They played hard and hung in there."

The seesawing affair was decided after the two SAC rivals wound up in a 84-all tie in regulation play. The Vikings managed to send the game into the extra period thanks to sophomore point guard Gregory Prewitt, who stole an inbound Rouge pass and dribbled the length of the court for a layup that tied the game.

In the overtime, James Outlaw took over and scored six points while Prewitt sank a pair of charities.

Outlaw was superb. He scored 20 points and grabbed 17 rebounds for the Vikings who also received 17-point each from junior center Maurice Ballard and Prewitt. Inkster also put Dewitt Davidson in the double figure scoring column. He had 11, plus 11 rebounds.

However, outstanding Rouge guard Benny Benford stole the scoring show. He drilled in a game-high 35 points.

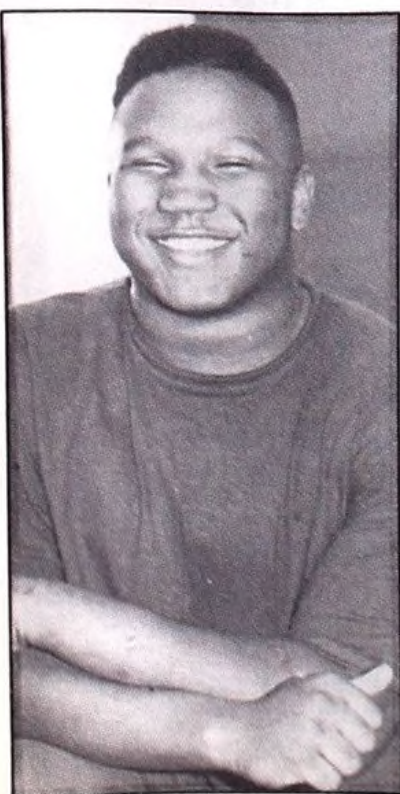

The Vikings were jolted by natural rival, Robichaud, 79-59, earlier in the week. The Bulldogs, behind a balanced attack provided by Orlando Brown, Tyus Williams and Dewey Mitchell, increased its one-point (16-15) first period lead to a 39-20 half-time advantage and they never looked back.

Brown, a forward, and Mitchell each had 22 points. Williams finished with 17.

Ibrahim Myles, a junior, led Inkster with 16 points. Outlaw had 12 and Richard Cooper counted 11.

Inkster has an international games scheduled for Friday night. Leamington, a team from Ontario, Canada will be in town.

"They have a fine team this year," said Grant. "Any time you have a team coming over here from Canada, you know they will have talent."

Hundreds apply for township job

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Job applications stacked to the third floor don't surprise employers anymore. But hundreds of resumes for a township assignment? You bet.

"These days we get that many applications for a (police) dispatcher's position," said David Medley, Canton personnel analyst. "I'm not shocked to see so many people shooting for a job. It must be a sign of the economy."

Medley said township merit commission officials recently approved a request by the municipal services department for an information coordinator. The job calls for some type of media background, knowledge of building permits and law interpretation, presentation skills and a variety of similar aptitudes related to the public information and construction fields.

"I'm thinking of someone who has gone through the process of helping the community understand something that they know very little about," Medley added.

Medley's staff put together a job description and announced the opening officially in early December through local classified ads. The response was tremendous. Within days the department was flooded with applicants from around the state.

Candidates face rigorous screening, plus role playing scenarios before the process really gets rolling.

Apparently not everyone, Medley added, thoroughly read the newspaper advertisement.

"The ad," he said, "specifically says no phone calls, yet we've received a number of calls. I guess you could say those folks can't follow directions very well."

Canton Township Personnel Analyst Dave Medley was somewhat surprised at the hundreds of resumes which inundated the township offices when one opening was recently advertised. ANP photo by Larry Divizio

State test scores are explained

Each year, students in United States elementary and secondary schools take 127 million standardized achievement tests at a cost of nearly $1 billion, according to Scott G. Paris, educational psychologist at the University of Michigan.

All too often, however, the tests do not measure the effects of educational reforms and innovations under way in the schools, and may even squelch them, Paris said.

"Ironically, the use of the standardized tests may thwart improvements in the curriculum, stifle the creativity of teachers and deprive students of opportunities to develop their talents," Paris said.

Paris and colleagues Theresa Lawton and Julianne Turner stated in the book Teacher Thinking that most standardized tests treat learning as if it were an amalgamation of separate bits of information and do little to measure students' thinking strategies, motivation and decision-making.

"Often teachers are forced to choose between preparing students for the upcoming tests so they will be test wise, or focusing on the goals of the curriculum," Paris said.

One Arizona study of more than 2,400 teachers and administrators found that nearly two-thirds of the elementary school teachers reviewed test materials before the test and half used commercial test preparation packages that teach test-taking skills.

Because of the pressure for their students to perform well on the tests, many teachers gave students practice tests, according to Paris. "An alarming 10 percent reported teaching students the actual items from the current test," he added.

Parents most often don't understand the meaning of test results, according to Paris.

"In a survey of Michigan parents, we found that most did not understand how the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test measured their child's mastery of basic skills, and they didn't understand the scoring," Paris said.

Most parents interpreted a score of 85 percent to mean that their child was in the 85th percentile, he explained.

"That is, they thought their child was in the top 15 percent of students in the state," Paris said. "In fact, it only means that the child met at least 85 percent of the objectives of the test. It is this gross misinterpretation of test scores that perhaps is responsible for the parents' overwhelming support for the MEAP and faith in its ability to measure educational progress."

Despite the flaws in standardized testing, Paris said, it continues to be required because the public-school boards, parents and politicians-wants quantifiable measures of student achievement so that educators can be held accountable.

Paris also offered the following suggestions for school district officials to use when they measure educational progress while avoiding standardized testing:

- Devise their own tests of purchase commercial tests that are clearly aligned with the stated educational objectives in their curriculum.
- Test a random scale of approximately 30 percent of students to find an average level of achievement for the district, rather than testing all the students at immense costs.
- Avoid testing students in the same subject area every year.
- Use a variety of measures of student achievement, particularly individual portfolios that include samples of students' work, projects, self-reports, teacher checklists and other indicators of learning.
- Communicate and explain the test results to the students so they realize why they are taking the tests.

"Recently the college held a poster contest to encourage students to design an attractive student-oriented poster," said Greg Baracy, principal at the William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center. "This poster will be used for market-

"There are 20 school districts in the consortium that have aligned technical program curriculum with the community college curriculum," Baracy said. "To attract students to the program, they decided to have a contest and asked all of the students in the graphic design classes to design a poster."

"She's got the first print off of the press," Baracy said. "I thought that would be something that would be somewhat significant to her."

By Susan Willett

The holidays usually bring out the worst in me. Actually, some claim that I make Scrooge look like Mother Theresa during this time of year, with all my whining and complaining.

This season of goodwill toward mankind and love for my fellow man turns me into a werewolf...growling, snapping and snarling at anyone who accidentally crosses my path. I do not have time for this, or anything else lately.

So, while I'm normally considered a less-than-sunny personality, this time of year brings a degree of curmudgeonry equalled by but a few who remain unassassinated.

And now I have the upcoming pleasure of facing the tax man. Yep, they're heeere. The wonderful people from the Internal Revenue Service will soon be expecting to hear from each of us—preferably via a check with our tax returns. Now, I'm REALLY cranky.

I am steamed. My faith, like that of so many others, has been incessantly eroded by the conduct of those elected (or appointed in some cases) to high national political office. The recent pardon by EX-president George Bush has really frosted by cookies, so to speak.

If I so much as committed jaywalking, I'd find my butt in a jail cell and yet George's cohorts and accomplices commit a crime of such magnitude as to involve and threaten the stability of our government and they get a pardon.

What really irritates me is that these are the buffoons spending my tax money. Yours, too. When you get your paycheck and see all those nice little federal deductions it is somewhat distressing to realize what your money buys. For instance:

- Our government spent $19 million in 1990 for the study of the emission of methane gas from cows. Yep, $19 million to study flatulence in cows. Personally, this made me sure that there were several cases of heretofore unreported brain flatulence in Congress, but what do I know, I only help pay for this nonsense.

- Congress has reserved $320,000 to purchase the home of President William McKinley's in-laws in Ohio. Oh, gee, I certainly hope my portion of the federal budget went for a worthy cause such as this. I've always wanted to be able to take my grandchildren to a historic site like the home of some former president's deceased in-laws.

- And I was equally pleased at the report of the $1 million spent on a study by the Federal Highway Administration to determine the reason Americans don't ride bicycles or walk more often. Here gentlemen is the answer: They have too far to go or the weather is inclement. Now, do I get the money?

- And, my favorite expenditure of tax dollars has to be the $150,000 spent to examine the Hatfield-McCoy feud. Perhaps if I could begin a battle with one of my neighbors, the federal government would fund a study of that. There was, after all, that long-standing battle between my mother and Aunt Florence, but I bet that wouldn't merit more than a paltry few grand.

And, now I understand why national surveys indicate that after taxes the typical American family, with two-earners and two dependents, spent 39.7 of their money on taxes—more

Lost Treasures

Remember that wonderful recipe you had stuffed between the pages of your favorite cookbook? The one you clipped from the back of the bag of corn chips back in 1960? What ever happened to that?

Or how about the one you found on the can of corn that used to make the kids gobble the stuff up as if it weren't really good for them?

Gone, aren't they? We've all done it. These treasures of culinary wisdom get thrown away, ripped, soaked with butter, drenched with gravy or mangled beyond repair in the refrigerator fan.

There is help. Honestly. An absolutely wonderful book, Best Recipes From the Backs of Boxes, Bottles, Cans and Jars available at most bookstores has all these easy and quick recipes using stuff you probably already have in the cupboard.

The 1,500 recipes in the book are nearly foolproof and have been tested and re-tested...not to mention tasted and re-tasted.

There are directions for really wonderful stuff in here, everything from appetizers and main courses to terrific desserts. And some of the disguises for vegetables provided in this book could fool even the pickiest of children.

The best part, however, is that all the recipes are convenient. There are dishes that may require a long cooking time, but nothing is complicated, messy or requires a great deal of kitchen skill. And they are all good, wholesome food that tastes delicious. You know, real food, not artistic creations designed for ego gratification. No, these are strictly for the appetite...and the soul.

These are the creations of cooks—real cooks, not pseudo chefs who have 14 different knives and 10 assistants to help them chop vegetables. Nope, this is the work of cooks who spend a lot of time in the kitchen creating wonderful food.

Combine evaporated milk, soup, cheese, salt, and pepper. Add onions and mushrooms to chicken. Pour soup mixture over chicken. Sprinkle with paprika. Cover dish with foil. Return to oven for 15-20 minutes. Serve.

JUST MARRIED

Gibbs--Bergman

Rachelle Gibbs and James Bergman were married in a late afternoon ceremony Sept. 12, 1992 at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Taylor.

The Rev. Jeffrey Drutchas officiated at the double-ring ceremony witnessed by more than 250 guests. Wanda McCane of Grand Ledge performed After all at the ceremony.

The church was decorated with floral arrangements which matched the bridesmaids bouquets and a unity candle. White ribbons and ivy decorated the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white crystal taffeta mermaid-style gown with lace sleeves, sequins and pearls. Her veil was held in place with a white pearl headband with drop pearls and white tulle. She carried pink and white roses, purple iris, French lilacs and pink heather in a mixed bouquet.

She wore a necklace presented to her by her grandmother and opal earrings which belonged to her great aunt.

Matron of honor at the nuptials was Luann Gibbs, a sister-in-law of the bride from Belleville. She wore a purple chiffon over purple satin gown and carried hot pink lilies, purple iris, pink cymbidium orchids, pink heather and greenery in a mixed floral bouquet.

Bridesmaids included Rhonda McCane of Au Gres, Mich., Beth Berman of Belleville and Jill Robinson of Flint. They wore gowns similar to that of the matron of honor and carried hot pink lilies, pink heather and baby's breath in mixed bouquets.

Acting as flower girl at the wedding was Courtney Gibbs, the daughter of Tedd and Luann Gibbs. She carried a basket of hot pink lilies, purple iris and pink heather accented with baby's breath and greenery. Her dress was of lavender chiffon.

Ring Bearer for the couple was Bobby Block, the son of Bob and Michelle Block of Belleville. He wore black tails with a white vest and tie similar to the groom.

floral dress.

Following their exchange of vows, the couple was honored at a reception for more than 350 guests at the Romulus Progressive Hall hosted by the parents of the couple. The hall was decorated with purple, lavender and clear balloons.

Personally, I have a real good idea of where most of the cow flatulence in this county is located...right between the ears of several politicians.

Happy New Year, indeed. See, I told you I get cranky.

jeopardy and I asked Bill to move back home. That's when things went real bad."

One particular night, she said, Bill came home drunk. The couple again argued and Bill started to chase Kelly around their home. Trapped at one point, Bill, wrapped an arm around her neck and applied pressure. Kelly's life, she said, "flashed before my eyes." She ended up calling police only after three telephones were ripped from the wall.

Finally Kelly had her husband committed to a hospital.

"He kept telling me everything would get better," she said. "And I believed him. But He kept telling me everything would get better. And I believed him. But nothing changed when he got out.

nothing changed when he got out."

Over Labor Day 1990, Bill left for four days. During that period Kelly had a dead-bolt lock installed and changed the other locks. The couple were granted a divorce last March.

"He still comes around yelling from his car," Kelly said. "He tells the neighbors that I have AIDS, or that I'm a drunk. I'm ashamed to leave home. I have a new boyfriend and he's afraid to come around. My child's in therapy, I'm in therapy. I took a medical leave from my job. And the court insists that we attend family counseling. I'm about to lose it. I can see how people snap and kill. I would never kill anyone, but I can see why people do it sometimes."

Ellis said women like Kelly travel through three emotional stages. Kelly is in the third, most dangerous, stage.

"It's the same thing we see when released hostages or prisoners of war are studied," Ellis said. "Their whole system breaks down. They live in extreme fear, are susceptible to disease and appear irrational. It's a merry-go-round, and unless someone steps in to help, these women can never get off."

Kelly is trying to sew her life back together.

"It's crazy," she said, "but I don't have any good memories of being with Bill. But my goal is to provide a better life for my child and hope that he doesn't grow up to hate me for all the turmoil he's been through. I don't want him treating women the way I've been treated for nearly 37 years."

Abused women are encouraged to call First Step, night or day, at (313) 459-5900, or at the Westland office 525-2230.

Saturn shoots for the stars

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Saturn sales continue to rise to the heavens and quality is the reason, said Saturn of Plymouth general sales manager John Scicluna.

"We've had limited supplies of the (Saturn) wagon and sports coupe," Scicluna said, "because the factories aren't releasing the vehicles until standards are met or exceeded. The company has decided there is no quality compromise and we love it. There has been more interest in Saturn now than any other time since it was introduced (mobbed) at last year's international auto show."

The ever-popular sedans continue as the cornerstone of the automaker's success. Built on a 102-inch wheelbase, the four-door, five-passenger models come equipped with MacPherson strut front and independent tri-link rear suspension designs which result in nimble handling of a small car with the touring feel of a larger GM car.

The SL and SL1 sedan models offer maximum fuel economy with a single-overhead-cam (SOHC), 1.9L, fuel-injected engine. Its 85 horsepower is developed at 5,000 RPM, with a fairly impressive stoplight torque rated at 107 pound to a foot. The engine can be mated to one of two Saturn designed and manufactured transmissions—the five-speed manual or the four-speed automatic.

Black and front fascias, standard 14-inch wheels and specific interior trim easily identify the SL and SL1 from other Saturns on the road.

SL 2 sedans got a fresh body-colored fascias this model year. Up front the panel has a wide, grille opening with provisions for new optional fog lamps. The rear bumper got a sculptured flare along the lower edge, giving it a sharp look.

Saturn's hot new SW1 and SW2 wagons, Scicluna said, are simply logical extensions of the four-door model. Modifications to the spaceframe were required to accommodate the design of the larger cargo area.

One of the key features of Saturn has been the rust-and-ding-free polymer body panels, that, of course, has been extended to the wagon on the roof and tailgate areas. The hood, like most polymer cars, is the only galvanized part stamped from steel.

The top-hinged tailgate also has a standard rear window washer/wiper arm system.

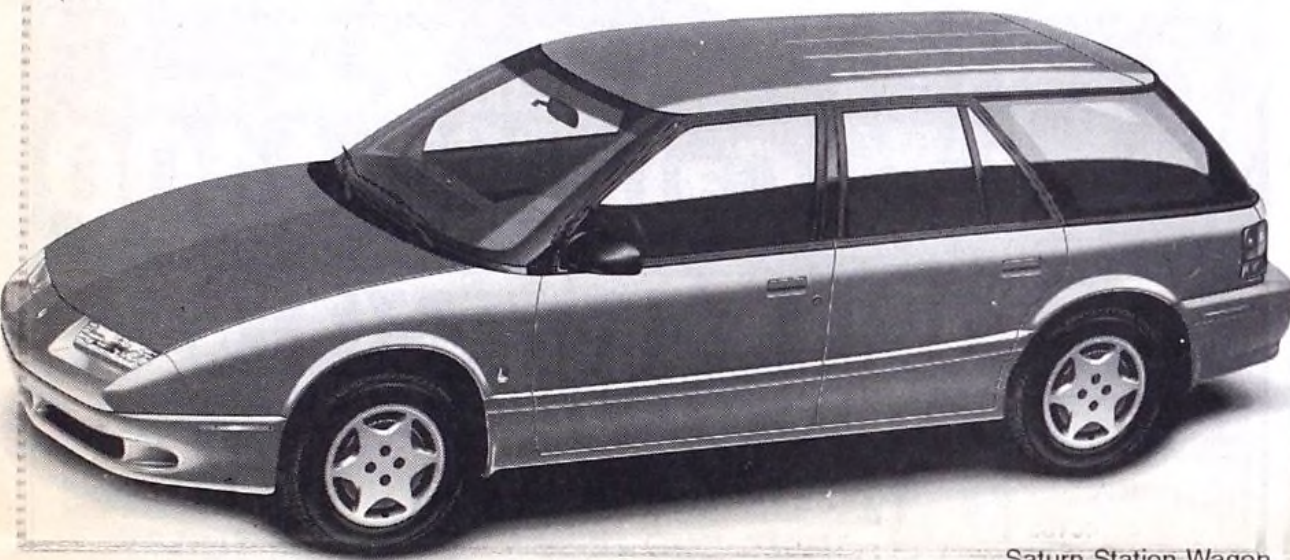

With rear seats up, the cargo area is 28.8 cubic feet and with the split folding rear seats down cargo volume is increased to 56.3 cubic feet.

Options on the 1993 wagon include a cargo shade and a roof rack. Fog lamps also are available on SW2.

The single coupe, the hot seller of last year, is renamed SC2 for 1993. That change opened the way for the addition of a new entry-level coupe, the SC1. Outside SC1 is easily distinguished by unique fenders and the stand-up headlights. The rear deck lid features a full-width painted panel and wraparound tail lamps are part of the rear quarter panel assembly.

Scicluna added that Saturn of Plymouth partners, Karen Tibus and Don Massey, have two additional satellite dealerships in Farmington Hills and Okemos.

"Sales are just fantastic," he said.
